If you have a partner, and you share the expenses, only state what you pay. If you have any irregular expenses, such as medical bills, choose the period (week, fortnight, month) that makes it easiest for you to estimate the amount you pay. ## Notes

- If you have any other comments, or any other information you think we should have to help us understand your situation, please write the details on a sheet of paper and attach it to this form. Make sure you write your name and IRD number on the paper.
- Remember to enclose payslips or other evidence to support the figures you have shown.
- If you are entitled to any tax credit, it will be automatically paid against your child support arrears.

IMPORTANT – Send us this form within 10 working days

If you don't return the completed form to Inland Revenue Child Support within 10 working days of receiving it, or if you don't give enough information, we will:

- set the amount you have to repay without contacting you further (this may result in a level of payment that you think is unfair)
- take other steps, such as legal action, to recover the child support you owe.

Reviewing the arrangement

If we agree with you on a payment arrangement, there are two important points you need to know.

- We will review the arrangement during its term, to see whether your financial situation has changed and whether the payment level is still appropriate.
- You must meet the terms of the arrangement and make each payment in full by the date set. If you do not, the arrangement will be cancelled, and we will take action to recover the child support you owe.
