

What are Working for Families Tax Credits?

This is a quick guide to show you what types of payments you may be entitled to and how to apply for them.

Working for Families Tax Credits (WfFTC) are payments to help make it easier for you to work and raise a family. They're payments for families with dependent children aged 18 or under. There are different WfFTC payments and you may qualify for one or more, depending on your personal situation.

Who can receive WfFTC

To be eligible for WfFTC, you must:

- be aged 16 years or older and the person responsible for the day-to-day care of the children, and
- care for the children on more than a temporary basis (eg, not a child minder)

The children must:

- be 18 years or under, and
- not be financially independent.

One of these residency requirements must be met:

- You were a New Zealand resident and present in New Zealand continuously for at least 12 months at any time. You must also be a New Zealand tax resident for the period you are claiming payments. However, you or your spouse, civil union or de facto partner cannot be claiming the transitional tax resident exemption.
- Your child or children are both resident and present in New Zealand throughout the period you are claiming WfFTC payments.

The WfFTC payments

Family tax credit

This payment offers financial support for most families. The amount of payment depends on your family situation.

In-work tax credit

In-work tax credit is for families who are in paid work. You can't get in-work tax credit if you get an income-tested benefit or student allowance.

For more information, go to ird.govt.nz/topics/working-for-families/types-of-working-for-families

Minimum family tax credit

Minimum family tax credit tops up your family income to a minimum amount after tax each week. To get this, at least one parent must be working for salary or wages. A two-parent family must work at least 30 hours a week between them, and a single parent must work at least 20 hours a week.

Best Start tax credit

Best Start tax credit helps families with the costs in a child's first three years.

You can't get Best Start tax credit while you receive paid parental leave for the same child. If you're entitled to both, your Best Start tax credit payments will start after your paid parental leave payments finish.

How to apply for WfFTC

If your main income is a benefit from Work and Income, you'll generally get your family tax credit from them.

If you don't get a benefit, or if you want us to pay your family tax credit, you can apply online in your myIR account or you can call us on 0800 227 773 Monday to Friday 8am to 8pm and Saturday 9am to 1pm if you have no access to our online service.

When we receive your application, we'll work out your weekly or fortnightly payments and send you a Notice of entitlement.

Note: You can apply for your baby's IRD number and the Best Start tax credit if you register your baby's birth online at www.smartstart.services.govt.nz If you register for Best Start tax credit through SmartStart and want to receive other WfFTC payments, you'll need to give us your income details. You can do this in myIR, or by calling us on 0800 227 773.

If you choose to get your WfFTC at the end of the year, we'll send you a letter confirming your application. Your WfFTC will be worked out as a lump sum after the end of the tax year.

How to make sure you get the right amount

Changes in your family's situation may change your payments. It's important you let us know if:

- a child comes into, or leaves, your care
- the amount or type of your family income changes (including starting paid parental leave), and
- your partner's details change.

It's also important you let us know if you're going to get more overtime or a bonus payment.

You can update your family's details online in myIR, by writing to us, or calling us on 0800 227 773.

If you don't let us know when your situation changes, you may get less WfFTC than you should, or you may have to pay some back.

You may be entitled to extra help

Paid parental leave

Paid parental leave is available to eligible parents and other primary carers (such as adoptive parents, Home for Life parents, whāngai and grandparents) when they take parental leave or stop working to care for their newborn or a child under the age of six who they now have primary responsibility for.

Entitlement for paid parental leave

Paid for up to...	for a newborn child...	for a child that comes into the customers care...
22 weeks	with a due date or born on or after 1 July 2018	on or after 1 July 2018
26 weeks	with a due date or born on or after 1 July 2020	on or after 1 July 2020

If your baby is born prematurely (before the 37th week of pregnancy) you'll qualify for additional pre-term payments. These payments cover the time between your baby's date of birth up to the end of the 36th week. Your regular PPL entitlement will start after this.

To find out more about paid parental leave, including information about pre-term payments, go to www.employment.govt.nz/leave-and-holidays/parental-leave or call the Ministry of Business, Innovation & Employment on 0800 209 020.
